How To Steal a Car in 5 Simple Steps

1. The vehicle owner leaves their key fob unprotected near their front door on a table, on a hook, or in their jacket pocket.
2. Thief #1 stands near your home with a relay box that boosts the signal from your fob.
3. Thief #2 stands near your car, picking up the boosted signal from Thief #1 with their relay box, which boosts the signal to the car.
4. The car believes that you, and your fob, are standing next to it, so it dutifully unlocks the door, allowing the thief to get into your car, start the engine, and drive away.
5. You get up in the morning to go to work only to discover your car has been stolen.

Thwart car theft by using a Faraday vault pouch to store your key fobs. Slip your fob into this pouch and close it. You've just protected your vehicle from theft.
